UI Typeface, LL Akkurat

<https://lineto.com/typefaces/akkurat/>

I went with LL Akkurat because it strikes the right balance between modern clarity and technical precision. It's clean, highly legible, and feels neutral, which works well in a product that's all about trust, speed, and stability. Originally designed with Swiss engineering values in mind, it's also flexible across weights and supports global languages, making it a strong choice for enterprise UI. It just gets out of the way and lets the product speak.

Presentation Typeface, Brown

<https://lineto.com/typefaces/brown/>

For these presentation adverts, I used LL Brown, a modern geometric sans rooted in the legacy of iconic European signage, like Johnston Sans and Super Grotesk. It's got a refined, trustworthy vibe that still feels approachable. Originally developed for Swiss watchmakers and even used by fintech startups, it's designed to carry both elegance and authority. Its crisp structure and versatile weights make it great for big headlines, taglines, and marketing pages where clarity and brand presence really matter.
